To celebrate a year of 'We would like you to write an about a magical golden

Are Reading Lancashire', we exciting adventure story book.

Imagine that you visiting your local library to get some new books. As you're quietly browsing the shelves to find your next 'best read' you notice a golden light gleaming out from underneath the shelf. As you get closer to investigate, you notice a shiny golden book just poking out from under the shelf. There's a magical golden light surrounding the book. What happens when you pick the book up? The rest is up to you... At home (and in school) 'Just Talk' about the events leading up to you finding the book — was anyone else in the library with you? What sort of a day was it? How were you feeling? Think about how you felt when you first noticed the golden light—were you curious, worried, excited? Try to describe the book in more detail—what size was it, did it look old or new, was there any writing on the front cover? Discuss what happened when you opened the book—perhaps some of your favourite characters came out of the book or maybe you went into the book! Whatever happened, make sure you come up with an exciting adventure to write about. We want to know all about your adventures with the Golden Book and what happened at the end of the story. Are there further adventures to come?
